THE DAY ON

born at Bratsburg, Filmore county, Minnesota.

Minister Leishman's cablegram was dated yesterday, and stated that the alsassination occurred Sunday, the minister being informed of the crime by Consil Ravudal. The consul stated that the murderer was not seen and is not known.

The announcement of the assassination of the American vice-consul, following so soon upon the assassination of a Russian consul in Turkey, created strong comment in official circles, and the signistion was made that such frequent assassinations indicate the disturbed condition of affairs in the Turkish dominions. Minister Leishman gave no parteniars of the assassination, and the State Department has no information as to the cause of the murder. The American Government will insist that the local authorities be punished if they were decelled in their duty, and that full measure of punishment be given the actual perpetrators of the outrage.

Important Port.

Heirut is a city on the eastern shore of the Mediterranean Sea, and is a place of considerable commercial simportance. It is probable that the action of the Turkish Government and the condition existing at Beirut will determine whether or not the European Squadron is to be sent to Turkish waters. Unless the Turkish Government acts promptly upon the demands made by the United States Government, it is expected that the European Squadron will at once so eastward. Although a copy of the dispatch from Minister Leishman was sent to the Navy Department, no request was made upon that department for sending the European Squadron to Eastern Mediterranean waters. The Navy Department, however, anticipating that such an emergency might occur, cabled Admiral Cotton to have the squadron in readiness. The President was immediately informed of the assassimation; also of the steps that had been taken by the State Department to secure redress. Further details of the crime and the action of the Turkish Government are awaited with interest by all government officials.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling sent this cablegram at 12:15 to-night to government officials.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling sent this cablegram at 12:15 to-night to Rear-Admirtal Cotton at Nice:

"Vice-Consul at Belrut reported assassinated. Proceed immediately nearest near React."

Il is expected the squadron will get away immediately upon receipt of this cable-gram, the Brooklyn, San Francisco and Machais going together.

SOUTH POTOMAC FLEET IS MUCH ENCOURAGED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—From the newspaper correspondents at Widewater. Va., who are watching Prof. Langley's aliship, Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling received this telegram to-day:
"The South Potomac squadron, composed of dispatch boats seeking to prevent the escape of Prof. Langley's airship, extends hearty congratulations on the notable victory achieved at Portland, Me., by our comrades who have gloriously upheld the cherished traditions of the navy. In what a said plight would our country be with only the army to defend it."

In reply Mr. Darling dictated this unofficial dispatch, addressed to the "Commander-in-Chief of the South Potomac Spundron, care the postmaster, Widewater, Va.
"With the support of the South Poto-mac Squadron the country breathes easter. (Signed) "DARLING."

INVESTIGATION WILL

"Widespread and continued newspaper criticism of most serious character, involving integrity of our work and our fidelity to duty impels us eo request that an immediate and searching investigation be instituted, and that the President be informer of this desire. We urge that there be asigned to the work of investigation, one whose reputation for honesty, ability and fearlessness is well established, and whose findings will be universally accepted."

The Secretary replied to the telegram saying that as soons as the proper man could be secured, he would be sent to the Territory with instructions to make a complete and impartial inquiry into conditions there.

NEWPORT, R. I., August 27.—H. L.
Doherty, of England, to-day defeated W.
A. Larned, of New Jersey, and to his title as champion of England, added that of champion of the United States. The score was 6-9, 6-3, 10-8, in favor of Dohorty and although in the last set the American player made a heroic stand, he was worn out by the British expert and falled to hold him on the eighth game.

By defeating Larned to-day Doherty completed the clean sweep which he and his brother have made in this country this season. Between them they hold both the singles and the doubles championships of the United States and England, as well as having won the Davis International Trophy without the assistance of any other player.

when there was no political campaignto his support of the employers' liability bill, of the child labor bill, and other measures.

Mr. Wendenburg himself spoke next. He declared that on Thursday next there would be scored a great victory for the workingmen, an object lesson to all officials and others who had borne down on them; a warning that it was in their power to put down their oppressors. The victory would be not only an isolated victory, but a great demonstration of the fact that of all unions, the union of the ballot is the most powerful.

The speaker declared that he claimed no credit for the position he took with reference to the 650 brave men who tried to elevate themselves in the face of a gigantic corporation. He had done it before at times when there was no political campaign; he would do it again when the occasion arose. He referred to the Fulton rot. He paid his respects to Mr. Huff, and declared that no man on earth would be gladder to see Wendenburg defeated than the general manager. If he were elected to the position of Commonwealth's attorney, the speaker went on to say, he would not allow an innocent man to go behind the tars. stove, a few easy chairs and a portable Russian bath were the only luxuries he took with him upon his return to aboriginal existence. With his wife and five children he has inhabited his tent since, and now pronounces his experiment a practical success.

"When rheumatism, from which I had suffered most of my life, became acute, I sold out many of my business interests and resolved to devote my time to my health rather than to my purse. I studied the question of beneficial conditions and came to the conclusion I must get out of doors. Since living in a tent I have regarded my health rapidly.

"Health is the greatest problem of civilization. Riches are a curse to a person in ill health, because he spends his time and money in doctoring and staying at 'cures' and sanitariums. If he would rough it in a tent have suffered. I have spent thousands of dollars doctoring and have visited all the famous apas and health resorts. But my first relief was experienced under those oak trees.

"A spring bubbling from the earth near our camp supplies us with pure water, and I insist that pure spring water is a prime remedy for many file. I lounge about under the trees, read, take my up an ax and, sallying into the woods, up an ax and, sallying into the woods, cut down a dead tree.

"In the morning my wife and I turn our children loose barefooted and the rest of the day they run wild through the woods. They are so healthy that I believe contact with poison oak would not show upon their skins. I have existed In luxury all my life, but the two months which I have passed in this tent have been the two happlest of my creer. I might add that by this mode of life we have solved the servant girl question. We are wild here, have no work, and do not need servants."
